

NEW WITNESS TELLS OF RICHESON AND GIRL

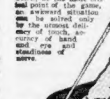

Miss Marion Howard Brasher, a Boston newspaper woman and lecturer, is known to have been in the room at the New Restaurant, on Dartmouth street, shortly before Mrs. Richeson's death.

When Brasher has told her story to the police and will probably be a witness at Richeson's trial, which is set to begin on January 15, Miss Brasher says the couple together about ten days before Mrs. Richeson's death. The new witness is positive of the identity of Richeson, but has been unable to identify a photograph of Mrs. Richeson as that of the companion of the minister.

"My connection with the case is this," said Miss Brasher. "About ten days before the death of Mrs. Richeson, while I was at lunch at the Dartmouth street place, I saw Mrs. Richeson and a young woman, sometime between 12 and 2 p. m., and I took particular notice of the young woman, who appeared to have been crying. I kept looking at them over my paper and observed that the young woman did not eat, but hung her head and wearily seemed to study over handwriting. I went to New York for a few days.

MRS. PATTERSON BARES HER LIFE

DENVER, Nov. 18.—Gerrit Gibson Patterson, who was on trial Monday on the charge of killing her husband, Charles A. Patterson, seems much less concerned over the fate of the jury than for her own life, she has just published, will have as her mother, she declared today she feared some of the revelations would bring her mother's wrath.

Some of the paragraphs in the unusual autobiography are:

"When I was sixteen years old I went with my sister, Mrs. Farnham, and her husband to Chicago. We stopped at a hotel where a friend of my sister introduced me to Earl Strouse, a Chicago merchant."

"After many conferences with my people, he finally took me to Chicago. He intended to marry me, but I was not prepared for his taking me to Chicago and I refused almost immediately. I was very young, and I wanted him to be proud of his son."

"We corresponded for five months, at the end of which time he came to a cable from Strouse. I returned to New York and, in company with my mother, went to Chicago. There Mr. Strouse again asked for my hand, but I refused."

"The fall of the same year he came for me again. This time he told me that he had given out the information that we were married and everything else."

"So we came again to Chicago, where we stopped at the same hotel. He was financially interested."

"He told me that he had married me, and I was very much surprised. He said that he had married me, and I was very much surprised. He said that he had married me, and I was very much surprised."

"Why I Live in South Boston."

By Dr. Patrick J. Timmins.

"It gives me pleasure," he says in his article, written for the Sunday AMERICAN, "to say a good word for South Boston, where I have lived for more than twenty years. Dr. Timmins's tribute to South Boston is the first thing ever printed that has done so much for the city. You read it only in the Sunday AMERICAN. Order your copy in advance from your neighborhood."

PATROLMAN GIVEN 210 HOURS' PENALTY

Patrolman William R. Ford of the Jamaica Plain police station was given 210 hours' punishment for being drunk on duty. Ford had been found guilty of being drunk on duty, and was given 210 hours' punishment. He was also given a fine of $100.00.

Charges, it was said, are based on duties in connection with the police list.

MILLIONS OF FOLKS USE ONLY CASCARETS

They Never Have Headache, Biliousness, Sluggish Liver or Bowels or a Sick, Sour Stomach.

No doubt how your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish intestines—you always get the desired results with Cascarets and quickly too.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels, make you miserable another moment; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your bowels of all the toxins and effluvia matter which is producing the misery.

Take a Cascaret now; don't wait until bedtime. In all the world there is no remedy like this. A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear conscience for months. Not one day of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All druggists sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

By HENRY HOBBS.

In recounting the Harvard basketball team's recent triumph over the Michigan team, it is interesting to discuss the efforts of the game's writers in the United States to make the game popular. Princeton, on recent consecutive Saturdays, has been the scene of a basketball "riot." The "Boston Herald" expressed the best feeling that they have ever known in their efforts to get that to win they were forced to try their best. In the "Boston Herald," a difference of three points, and Harvard by two, makes it a tie. The "Boston Herald" is the only paper that has not yet been put forth.

It is not as easy as it seems to be. The "Boston Herald" is the only paper that has not yet been put forth. The "Boston Herald" is the only paper that has not yet been put forth.

Princeton took in both.

LACROSSE AT COLUMBIA IS STILL DOUBTFUL

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Before giving his final word for the resumption of lacrosse, the athletic authorities at Columbia have decided that the students interested in the sport will have to get out and make it their own game. The decision was announced yesterday, and the next will come Wednesday afternoon, when an inter-collegiate game will be played between the seniors and juniors, from which classes the students will choose for a varsity team who will draw up the program.

The director of the Columbia gymnasium,

Harry A. Fisher, the graduate manager, will look the game over and decide whether it will be worth while to reinstate lacrosse as a varsity sport. The game was abolished a year ago at Columbia by the athletic association, but this fall a motion ahead of time the day after, so as not to miss the 5:30 train and hurt Aunt Hallie's feelings, and the first thing you know

Mary has to give poor, kind, good-humored Mary a blue envelope, and you never think of it. You think of the money, of the clothing samples for some one or just for wasting time and energy you pay for some other thing. And every one feels sorry for Mary's mother, and Mary's good mother, because poor Mary "doesn't get along to business."

A Few Questions

I know a man who never engages a woman to work in his office without asking her for a few personal questions:

"Do you like your job?" "Will your mother be grieved if I keep you a few minutes over office hours once in a while?" "Do you have any friends or girlfriends, or will you be able to give up your entire mind to your work during office hours?"

If the woman answers these questions in the right way she gets a chance in the office; if she answers them the wrong way she never knows what is the matter, but there is never any vacancy just then.

consider Mary's relations when Mary's sisters do not even consider Mary herself at all!

"You say you're busy downtown. Aunt Nellie, master than you ever were in your life even at church bazaar time. She is working for a living, and working hard; what right have you to make it harder for her?"

"Why won't you give Sister Mary an even chance with Brother John? Just be like him!"

"Do you think that's a fair way to look at it? I don't."

A Blunder

It was not an important case, but the young lawyer was anxious to shine. When at last there stepped into the box a diminutive out-at-elbowe youth, the pleader thought his chance had come.

"You say you are fifteen? Have you any occupation of any kind?"

"No." And the youth shook his head.

"You just loaf about—stand at the corner of the street, and say 'o-y'."

"That's about all, mister."

"What does your father do?"

"Feyther? Nowt much."

"Doesn't he do anything to help keep be family?"

"Sometimes. 'E gets an odd job now and again like."

"Does your lawyer send him?"

"As matter of fact, your father is a lazy, worthless, good-for-nothing idler!"

"Ah dunno!" drawled the youth. He-ber-ly; mebbe he isn't. Anyway, you can ask him yourself. 'E's sittin' there on the 'ery."

The Cigarette-Smoking Woman

The Public Has a Right to Banish Her to the Privacy of Her Home.

Copyright, 1911, by American Journal Company

A Philadelphia hotel proprietor lately expressed sincere regret that one of his fashionable woman customers had selected his dining room as the theatre for an exhibition of cigarette smoking.

When this regret found its way into print the mother of the lady in question grew highly indignant. "My daughter has a perfect right to smoke if she chooses," she said. "She smokes cigarettes in her home, why should she not do so in a public dining room? There is a deal too much nonsense talked about woman's smoking cigarettes, anyway."

We devoutly trust that the "nonsense" that is talked about woman's smoking cigarettes will continue to be talked till women cigarette smokers find some cleaner and more attractive method of occupying their idle time.

The cigarette smoking woman and the cocktail drinking woman are not decorative in any public place, nor are they in the least charming or "dashing," even in the eyes of their male companions.

A vice that is disgusting in a man becomes ten times more disgusting if practiced by a woman. In the general scheme of this universe women were made beautiful because they were meant to uplift mankind and keep the standards of the ruder, coarser, less civilized male sex on a high plane.

Cigarettes, besides being degrading and demoralizing, are dirty. They defile with brown stains fingers that ought to be pink like the rose leaf; they afflict their users with a breath like that of a pipe-smoking longshoreman.

Incidentally, they ruin the digestion, and their continued use results in blotchy complexions, dull, yellowish eyes, and a prematurely haggard and drawn expression of faces that ought to be fresh and beautiful for many years to come.

Gradually MEN are coming to learn that smoking unfits them for their best work, and that drinking practically destroys their chances of success.

Investigation discloses that there are fewer smokers and drinkers among the male sex than formerly—that the number is becoming fewer every year.

It certainly ought not to be for women to take up the vices that men are abandoning.

The daughter who has had to put up year after year with the foul reek of her father's tobacco-soaked breath would be committing a highly idiotic folly to scent her own breath with nicotine when she reached womanhood.

Can you imagine a MOTHER holding her baby to her breast with one arm and with her free hand carrying a cigarette to her lips!

Can you imagine that YOUR MOTHER would have inspired you with the reverence she did if it had been her daily custom to follow each meal with a series of puffs from a cigarette!

The fashionable woman who annoyed the Philadelphia hotel-keeper would doubtless be deeply annoyed herself if some one showed her a picture of a great-grandmother smoking a short, black pipe.

Artists who paint fashionable ancestors would not find a market for that sort of portraiture, even if they could swear that their pictures were historically accurate.

Were any woman to walk into one of the great hotels in New York, or Philadelphia, or Chicago, or Boston, and LIGHT A PIPE, there would be a storm of righteous indignation that would result in prompt legislation against such conduct.

Were a woman, however great her social position might be, to PULL OUT A FEW OF TOBACCO AND BITE FROM IT A SATISFYING "CHW," it is not likely that she would be permitted to retain her place at the table, whatever the laws might be on the subject.

We imagine that the mother of the Philadelphia woman who is so greatly incensed about the fuss over her daughter's rights would be the first to object to tobacco chewing or pipe smoking in her presence.

But let us not forget that the cigarettes are just as unclean as the pipe or plug tobacco, that their effects are even more deadly to health, and that almost as many people are offended when they see women smoking them.

There are many things a woman may do in her home that she ought not to do in public. She may quarrel with her husband, for example, or spank her children—neither performance would be pleasant for perfect strangers to witness.

The fashionable women who insist on cigarette smoking have abundant opportunity to do so. With a fine regard for the feelings of their more refined patrons, hotelkeepers go to the length of setting apart private rooms for them.

The public, which loves to see women clean and wholesome and beautiful, is entitled to this consideration, and even the ladies who are most contemptuous of the opinions of others ought to do their cigarette smoking, and their drinking, and their quarrelling in private—if they must do it at all.

The Highways of the Nation

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided unanimously that intrastate traffic on interstate railroads is subject to Federal regulation. The court holds that the Federal power over interstate commerce could not be effectually maintained if the separate States could create and legally maintain local conditions—with respect to safety appliances, etc.—that were out of harmony with the Federal regulations in like matters.

The country and the court are to be congratulated on this decision. It is broad-minded and reasonable. It sweeps out the way all trivial and merely technical considerations. And it clears the way for a thorough-going control by the Federal government of the highways of the nation.

Don't Run Past This Signal

Which Is Merely a Way of Calling Attention to the Fact That To-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN, Full of Things of Interest to Everybody, Will Be a Necessity to Every Railroad Employee in New England.

Early in the week we began to call attention to the fact that letter carriers and the railway mail clerks—all the postoffice employees of the New England States, would find something of peculiar interest to them in to-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN. The post-office article was prepared some time ago. We have little doubt that our friends in the postal service know what it is about. Probably any one of them knows a hundred times more about the subject matter than the reporter who put the story together. Knowing the difficulties under which the reporter must have labored, the postoffice folks will all the better appreciate how well he has done his work.

What we have to offer to the boys in gray, however, is by no means so important or so interesting as our two great features of special interest to the railroad men of New England.

One of these railroad features has to do with the pension system introduced on the Boston & Maine railroad by former President Lucius Tuttle. Mr. Tuttle is no longer president of the Boston & Maine Railroad. He was—and is—a great railroad man and a great New Englander. The first of our Sunday railroad stories has to do with the Tuttle Pension System. There are some NEW FACTS in connection with this system that every workman ought to know.

But the second of our railroad stories will be the most important word in the SUNDAY AMERICAN. It will be important not only to railroad men—vitaly important to them—but, in an instructive, illuminative way, to the men of every craft in New England.

It would scarcely be good business on our part to reveal to-day the exact nature of this most important story. We will say that every railroad man MUST have it if he would be up to the minute, and that men of every other calling OUGHT to have it.

We have also had prepared for the SUNDAY AMERICAN a special story about the opening of the mayoralty campaign in New Bedford. "Charley" Ashley, that debonair and unique gentleman who has been fourteen times elected Mayor of the Whaling City, wants a fifth term. The town is rife with the same old cries of "graff" and "vote buying." Brother Ashley, contemplating his fourteen victories, smiles at his opponents and tells them now is the time to make good or "shut up."

As the campaign opens, the SUNDAY AMERICAN is without a special preference in the New Bedford battle. Inasmuch as the opposition seems to be divided, the chances would appear to favor the man in power. One of his rivals has four times ran for mayor and three times has been defeated. The other, an attorney, who began life as the office boy for a newspaper, carried the city for District Attorney last year by 438 votes over another who had both the Republican and the Democratic nominations.

One of the anti-Ashley men promises to disclose a lot of graft in city affairs. We print all he is ready to say about it now. The other is holding a $1,000 bill in his hand and wants to pay it for evidence that will convict a vote-buyer. The New Bedford campaign will be so hot that somebody is likely to be blistered by it. Better follow it from the beginning. The best way will be by taking home a copy of the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

And then we pass lightly to Johnny Cake, which has found a good friend in the Y. M. C. A. of Windsor County, Vermont. What the Y. M. C. A. proposes to do for a good old New England standby is revealed interestingly in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Our friends in Maine have just discovered that next February's special session of the Legislature will be compelled to do a little more—at least a little more—than appoint a day for the resubmission of the Prohibition amendment. What else do you suppose the special session MUST do? Why, elect a United States Senator! Not many weeks ago Governor Planted named Obadiah Gardner to succeed the late William P. Frye. Now the special session will have to do something. To-morrow's SUNDAY AMERICAN tells what.

Woburn, and North Adams, and South Boston, will all have special pages in this SUNDAY AMERICAN. Senator-elect George A. Schofield of Ipswich, Dem., and former Representative Clarence J. Fogg of Newburyport, Rep., who have lately come near to the "shorter and uglier" word, will have it out in a little corner of the paper all to themselves.

And then there will be the Sunday editorial, the lively magazine section, the drawings of Mr. Oppen, Tom Powers, Bud Fisher and the rest, and OF COURSE, the LATEST NEWS. All for the usual price!

There may have been a better all around Sunday newspaper than the SUNDAY AMERICAN we are getting ready for to-morrow, modesty compels us to say that much—but frankly we do not remember it. Will you please say a word to your newsdealer in time!
